The Daily Oregonian.

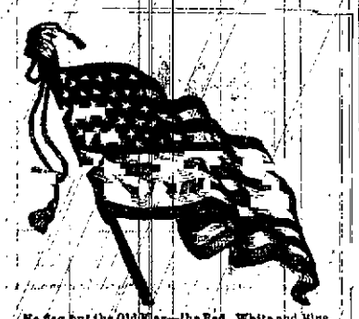
THURSDAY MORNING, MARCH 31, 1864.



No flag but the Old Flag—the Red, White and Blue,
With the stars of a Union unbroken and true!
Arise and defend it, ye sons of the brave,
Whose blood bought the banner your valor must save.

The State Convention.

Our dispatch report was received at so late an hour that we have little time or space for comment. A patriotic platform was adopted, which we shall publish to-morrow. A resolution regarding the mint created some discussion, and a member from Wasco, whose right to a seat in the Union Convention, seems to us rather doubtful, undertook to play the bully. That is his style, but his game was stopped by leaving the matter as the Legislature did, in its memorial on the subject passed in 1862.

The first ballot showed that there was no concentrated sentiment in favor of any particular candidate. The vote for Mr. Henderson and for Mr. Jacobs indicated a strong disposition to claim the candidate in the Southern portion of the State. Each successive ballot still further showed this fact, until on the fifth, Mr. Henderson received sixty votes, when he was unanimously nominated.

Though our personal acquaintance with the next member of Congress from Oregon, is but slight, we know that he justly enjoys a high reputation for eloquence, for capacity and unswerving fidelity to the Union. He was a decided Republican, though as clergyman, he took part in political matters, only so far as to show his utter hostility to the corrupt schemes of the politicians who so long ruled our own State as they ruled the nation. We are confident that he will never be the weak and wavering tool of any faction for the sake of policy, but that with the bold heart of a faithful patriot, true to the country and to freedom, he will make the people of Oregon proud that they have a reliable and a capable representative.

Democratic Strength.—A glance at the political map is sufficient to convince us that there is a deep-seated, wide-spread movement on foot to produce schism and division in the Union ranks in this State. No effort is spared to inflame passion and prejudice for the accomplishment of this purpose. If the overthrow of the Union party is not the object, why is this persistent and continued war made upon old Republicans? We are not of the old Republican party, but we respect and honor the old guard who were the first to raise the banner of Union in this State, and who were magnanimous enough when their enemies were defeated to abandon party and welcome all Union men into their ranks. But no sooner did these politicians get into the party and secure place than they began to "smite the hand that had befriended them."

The above from the Nevada, California, Transcript, indicates that the game which is being played in Oregon, has its operators in California also. We are not apprehensive that it will amount to much, or divide the loyal sentiment of the people, who will readily detect the object of the unprincipled schemers who always join the popular party and as soon as they join, attempt to control it. We could point to several would-be leaders who, scarcely a twelve month ago, cursed Republicans and War Democrats, denounced them as ungodly abolitionists, boasted of the loyalty of Seymour and abused the Administration; but now, seeing that they were on the wrong side, without a chance of becoming Public Printers, going to Congress or filling any office are the most ardent Union men in profession who can be found. They have adopted the party as an Indian takes a squaw, not to serve it, but to make it serve them. They seem to suppose it necessary as a proof of their fidelity to their new pretences, to abuse the long-tried and consistent men, who have borne the burden and heat of the day in resisting the attempts of the Democracy to sacrifice the country to slavery. The purpose of this course is evident, but it will have very little effect; it will not deceive an intelligent community, nor can it dampen the ardor of earnest and faithful patriots, who have fought the good fight from principle, and, will continue it while they live. In these remarks, we wish it distinctly understood, that no reference is had to the noble band of loyal men, formerly democrats, who, true to the summons of patriotism, as soon as peril gathered around the nation's life, joined heart and hand in efforts for its protection. They deserve and will ever receive the esteem and confidence of all who love the Union. Widely different from their course, was that of the class to whom we have alluded, who strove to aid the rebellion, until it became unpopular, and then as a better way to do mischief to the Union cause, pretended to adopt it. They are the "demagogue schemers" who are making trouble in California and in Oregon, and whose plans must be resolutely and completely checked.

In Their Last Term.—The following is a list of Senators whose term of service expires with the present Congress, ending March 4, 1865:

William Saulsbury, of Delaware; William A. Richardson, of Illinois; James W. Grimes, of Iowa, (re-elected;) L. W. Powell, of Kentucky; Samuel C. Pomeroy, of Kansas; William P. Fessenden, of Maine; Henry Wilson, of Massachusetts; Jacob M. Howard, of Michigan; John P. Hale, of New Hampshire; John C. Ten Eyck, of New Jersey; Benjamin F. Harding, of Oregon; Henry B. Anthony, of Rhode Island; John S. Carlile, of Virginia.

An Eloquent Tribute to the Sacrifices and Glory of the War.

Governor Andrew's Message to the Massachusetts Legislature has the following admirable passage on the sacrifices and glory of the war:

"Several topics—among others, the militia—omitted from the address, already long, can be better matured hereafter, if occasion demand their discussion. I must not omit to bear public testimony again to the efficient manner in which the recruitment of volunteers is conducted through the municipal governments. The work is brought directly home to the people. Led by their own local magistrates, it is patriotically done. Time, an element not usually understood, will enable them to fill our contingent. I can never express my sense of the sublime devotion to public duty I have witnessed in this people from my watch tower of observation, nor the gratitude I owe for their indulgent consideration.

But the heart swells with unwonted emotion when we remember our sons and brothers, whose constant valor has sustained on the field, during nearly three years of the war, the cause of our country, of civilization and liberty. Our volunteers have represented Massachusetts, during the year just ended, on almost every field and in every department of the army where our flag has been unfurled. At Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, Vicksburg, Port Hudson and Fort Wagner, at Chickamauga, Knoxville and Chattanooga under Hooker, and Meade, and Banks, and Gillmore, and Rosecrans, Burnside and Grant, in every scene of danger and of duty; along the Atlantic, and the Gulf, on the Tennessee, the Cumberland, under Dupont and Dahlgren, and Foote, and Farragut, and Porter, the sons of Massachusetts have borne their part, and paid the debt of patriotism and valor. Ubiquitous as the stock they descended from, national in their opinions, and universal in their sympathies, they have fought shoulder to shoulder with men of all sections and of every extraction. On the ocean, on the rivers, on the land, on the heights were they thundered down from the clouds of Lookout Mountain the defiance of the skies, they have graven with their swords a record imperishable.

The Muse herself demands the lapse of silent years to soften, by the influences of time her too keen and poignant realization of the scenes of war—the pathos, the heroism, the fierce joy, the din of battle—but during the ages to come, she will brood over their memory. Into the hearts of her consecrated priests will breathe the inspirations of lofty and undying Beauty, Sublimity and Truth, in all the glowing forms of speech of literature and plastic art. By the homely traditions of the fireside, by the headstones in the churchyard, consecrated by those whose forms repose far off in rude graves by the Rappahannock, or sleep beneath the sea, embalmed in the memories of succeeding generations of parents and children, the heroic dead will live on in immortal youth. By their names, their character, their service, their fate, their glory, they cannot fail.

"They never fail who die
In a great cause: the blade may soak their gore;
Their heads may sodden in the sun, their limbs
Be strung to city gates and castle walls;
But still their spirit walks abroad. Though years
Elapse and others share as dark a doom,
They but augment the deep and sweeping thoughts
Which overpower all others, and conduct
The world at last to Freedom."

—The edict of Nantes, maintaining the religious liberty of the Huguenots gave lustre to the fame of Henry the Great, whose name will gild the pages of philosophic history after mankind may have forgotten the martial powers and the white plume of Navarre. The great Proclamation of Liberty will lift the Ruler who uttered it, our Nation and our Age, above all vulgar destiny.

The bell which rung out the Declaration of Independence has found at last a voice articulate, to "Proclaim Liberty throughout all the land, and to all the inhabitants thereof." It has been heard across oceans, and has modified the sentiments of cabinets and kings. The people of the Old World have heard it, and their hearts stop to catch the last whisper of its echoes. The poor slave has heard it, and with bounding joy, tempered by the mystery of religion, he worships and adores. The waiting Continent has heard it, and already foresees the fulfilled prophecy when we shall sit, "redeemed, regenerated, and disenthralled by the genius of Universal Emancipation."

Get Enough Sleep.—We have often heard young men remark that four or five hours sleep was all they wanted, and the human system required. The habit of going without sufficient sleep is very injurious. Thousands, no doubt, permanently injure their health in this way. We live in a fast age, when everybody seems to be trying to pervert the order of nature. If folks will persist in turning night into day, it is not to be wondered at that few last the allotted term of life. No matter what be a man's occupation—physical or mental, or, like Othello's, "gone," and living in idleness—the constitution cannot last, depend upon it, without a sufficiency of regular and refreshing sleep. John Hunter, the great surgeon, died suddenly of spasmodic affection of the heart, a disease generally encouraged by want of sleep. In a volume just published by a medical man, there is one great lesson that hard students and literary men may learn, and that is, that Hunter probably killed himself by taking too little sleep. Four hours' rest at night, and one after dinner, cannot be deemed sufficient to recruit the exhausted powers of the body and mind. Certainly not; and the consequence was that Hunter died early. If men will insist on cheating sleep, her "twin sister, death," will avenge the insult.

Senators, who can be Spared.—Saulsbury of Delaware, Richardson of Illinois, Powell of Kentucky, Carlisle of Western Virginia, and Harding of Salem, are in their last term of Senatorial service. There are better Union men in the Rebel Congress at Richmond than some of these, whatever may be said of the others, though in spite of the facts that Mr. Lincoln gave Richardson a commission as a Brigadier-General, soon after the war began, and that some of the others were elected in part by Union votes, upon pledges of unconditional loyalty, it cannot be denied that they have seemed to care more for the success of Democracy, than for the salvation of the Union and the destruction of the rebellion and its infamous cause. Let us hope that in the good time coming, they will be replaced by patriotic men, who love the country more than slavery, and will not on every possible occasion show their desire to protect the last at the expense of liberty and of the interests of the nation.

Strong Swearing.—When a repentant secessionist takes the oath of allegiance, his old associates say he is "iron-clad." It is better says the Nashville Union, to be "iron-clad" with loyalty, than copper-clad with treason, or go down to Dixie and not be clad at all.

Scheme for Paying the Public Debt.—A farmer addresses his fellow farmers through the Cincinnati Gazette, and proposes the following scheme, which, he says, will ultimately pay the public debt, namely:

Let us remember that whilst "trade wields the sword, agriculture supplies the power." It is then our duty to cultivate our land so as to increase that power. At least one-half of the labor employed in agriculture has been withdrawn from it within the last three years, but with increased industry and effective machinery we can make up this loss. Let us plant this spring, peas to increase food for man and beast, leaving off tobacco, cotton, &c. Our crops should be oats, peas, onions, cabbage, potatoes, corn, beans and grass. Whilst we are planting let us look carefully to our stock, increasing the number and quality. Poultry should be well attended to, and the stock increased four fold. Prices will rule higher for some years to come, and whilst man is generally benefitted by our increased productions, our country will be strengthened as an increase of food will certainly be followed by an increase of population.

Miseries of Working Girls.—The late movement in regard to the increase of working women's wages has brought some very terrible things to light. One poor girl has been living for months upon dry bread and salt. Two others bring a story which reflects no credit on our police force. Out of employment and homeless, they applied at a station house for lodging, which is supplied to homeless wanderers nightly. The sleeping places were all full, but a policeman informed them that he would show them a place to rest. They accompanied him to a dwelling in street, where, according to their statement, he told them they would find comfortable quarters. The girls put perfect faith in his advice and would have remained under the roof to which he conducted them had not the mistress of the place, whom the girls described as an old woman dressed in velvet and covered with jewelry, herself met them at the door, warned them that it was a house of disrepute and bid them depart unless they desired to lead a life of infamy. The girls, being virtuous, fled at once, and sat up all night before the fire in the public room of the station-house, whence in the morning they were directed by some good Samaritan to the rooms of the Protective Society, where they were cared for. Such stories reach the ears of the Directresses of the Society every day.—Boston paper.

How the Enemy Do It.—It is a good rule not to be above learning from your enemy. A project lately recommended by the Rebel Adjutant General of Virginia proposes an absolute repeal of the clause in the State law which permits drafted men to procure substitutes. Adjutant-General Richardson strengthens this pleasant suggestion for forcing every man into the rebel army by urging that the substitute system has been productive of the most atrocious frauds, and that no man should be permitted to elude the responsibility of military service. The opposition journals in the loyal States would overwhelm with execration any officer or private citizen who should make a suggestion like this; yet because the Government has legalized an easy method of substitution, mobs are excited to villainous deeds, and Governors and legislators and public speakers justify a forcible resistance to a wise enactment, which at once relieves men from duty and replenishes the National treasury. A taste of life under rebel taskmasters would probably convert these opponents of the Government into loyal citizens. The despotism is at the South, not here.—N. Y. Evening Post.

Arkansas Free.—Had any one been asked two years ago, to guess which of the Slave States would be the first to abolish slavery, he would have said Delaware, and one of the last States he would have named would have been Arkansas. Yet Arkansas has been the very first to consummate the work. The new constitution, just framed and ratified by the votes of the people, utterly forbids the holding of slaves in that State, and this day not a man, woman or child there is legally held in bondage. In Maryland the convention to alter the constitution is called, and the abolition of slavery in that State is sure, and it is equally sure in Missouri; but Arkansas only a few months ago a rebel State, has cleared itself from the curse before any of them. It is more than probable that by the first of January, 1865, slavery will have been abolished by constitutional amendments in every State except Kentucky. Of course the people of that State will be allowed to cling to their idol as long as they please, but that will not be very long.

Southern Advice.—Mr. D. C. Humphreys of Alabama, a Democratic Presidential elector in 1860, and since an active Secessionist, has issued an address, in which he defines his position and advises the return of the South to the Union. He says the hopes of foreign recognition has proved a failure. The institution of slavery, for which the South went to war, has been wrecked, and if the Union arms continue to prosper the whole system will be, to use Mr. Humphrey's phrase, "unsystematized." He believes that the South by returning immediately to the Union, may receive the right of disposing of slavery in the manner best according with surrounding circumstances. On this great question he says the South must make a radical change, and "if the voice of Christendom is against it, yield to that voice as the voice of God."

The National Intelligencer not long ago said to Rev. Mr. Beecher, "You profess to be very sorry for the slave. How much have you been sorry? that is, how many slaves are free to-day because their emancipation has cost you money?" To which H. W. B. replied thus: "We will answer cheerfully: the number, as nearly as we can estimate it, is three million three hundred and fifteen thousand, which we hope shortly to increase to four millions. To this multitude we might honestly add a few more, though, for good reason, we forbear to state how many, with whom, in past times, we have shaken hands on their way to Canada."

Quartz-Mill Coming from Chicago.—Mr. A. J. Andrews, of the firm of Andrews & Tudor, arrived here on Tuesday night, ten days from Salt Lake, and only twenty-two and a half traveling time, from St. Joseph, Mo. These men left here in November last, and have been to New York, Chicago and other cities and States in the east. They purchased a 12-stamp quartz-mill from the foundry of Gates & Co., Chicago, weighing—including boiler, engine, etc., 14 tons, or 28,000 pounds. Mr. Tudor remains with the mill at St. Joseph until the 28th April, when he will start across the plains for South Boise, where the machinery will be put up on the Idaho ledge, for the purpose of working which, the mill was purchased and is being shipped.—Messrs. Andrews & Tudor have purchased in Missouri some eight ox-teams, and are hauling their own freight. It is believed that freight can be brought profitably from St. Louis to this place for 30 cts. per pound. At that price, there are many articles that will bear transportation, and it would not be surprising to see considerable quantities of goods coming from that direction on ox-teams this Fall.—Boise News, March 19th.

New Diggings.—A new mining excitement has sprung up at "Boise" in regard to new discoveries made on Wood river, somewhere near the Big Camas Prairie on the old emigrant road, south-east of old Fort Boise.—Walla Walla Statesman.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE DAILY OREGONIAN.

Proceedings of the Union State Convention at Albany.

Albany, March 30, 1864.

The Union State Convention met this morning and effected a temporary organization by electing Gen. Joel Palmer President and J. B. Underwood and W. C. Whitson Secretaries.

A Committee on Credentials was appointed, consisting of one member from each Judicial District—S. Colver, J. R. Bailey, J. W. Grim, T. H. Pearne and L. Lyon. Adjourned to 1 o'clock P. M.

Afternoon Session.—Committee on Credentials made a report, which was adopted.

Voted to admit the members of the Union Press of the State to desks to report.

Committees were appointed on Permanent Organization, Order of Business, and Resolutions—the last named consisting of Pearne, Woods, Howell, Eddy, Peebles, Smith and Kendall.

Committee on Permanent Organization reported the following officers: President, Wilson Bowlby; Secretaries, W. C. Whitson and W. J. Allen. Report adopted.

Committee on Order of Business reported as follows: 1st, Receiving Reports of Committees; 2d, Nomination of Candidates for Congressman; 3d, Presidential Electors; Nominating Delegates to the National Convention; 5th, Nomination of State Officer; 6th, Election of State Central Committee. Committee recommended that the voting in Convention be by ballot. A motion to strike out ballot and insert viva voce was lost after sharp discussion. A motion to reconsider was lost—ayes 48, noes, 61. Report adopted.

Committee on Resolutions reported lengthy, patriotic and interesting resolutions, which will be sent by mail to-morrow.

A resolution requesting the establishment of a Branch Mint at Portland created considerable discussion between the Delegation from the Dalles, headed by Newell, and Delegates from other sections of the State, in which, amid cries of "Question, Question," from the members, Mr. Newell, having the floor, rolled up his sleeves and said the Convention must hear, or they shall hear no more from the Delegates from Wasco. Finally, to prevent further discussion, which had become somewhat acrimonious, it was voted to strike out the word "Portland," leaving the location unnamed, but intimating that the Legislature had already settled that question at its last session. Adjourned to 7 P. M.

Evening Session.—The Convention, on re-assembling, balloted for a candidate for Congress with the following result:

J. H. Henderson, of Lane county, 34; O. Jacobs, of Jackson, 25; O. Humason, of Wasco, 15; J. R. McBride, of Yamhill, 13; Joel Palmer, of Yamhill, 10; W. C. Johnson, of Clackamas, 9; W. Bowlby, of Washington, 4; L. Lyon, of Wasco, 1. Total, 109. (Necessary for choice) 55.

Second Ballot.—Henderson, 42; Palmer, 23; Jacobs, 23; McBride, 6; Humason, 8; Johnson, 4; Bowlby, 3. No choice.

Third Ballot.—Henderson, 46; Palmer, 31; Jacobs, 26; Humason, 6; Johnson, 3.

Fourth Ballot.—Henderson, 52; Palmer, 24; Jacobs, 20.

Fifth Ballot.—Henderson, 60; Palmer, 31; Jacobs, 21.

And Mr. Henderson was unanimously declared the nominee of the Convention, which then adjourned until to-morrow morning.

The ladies of Albany are giving a grand festival for the benefit of the Sanitary cause, in a room elegantly decorated. The crowd is large. The music is furnished by the Albany Brass Band.

California News.

San Francisco, March 30.—Markets very quiet with few noticeable features. Extra flour, $6,50; wheat, 2 cts.; barley, 2½ cts.; oats, 3.

Legal Tenders, 60@61.

J. C. Woods, Commissioner Nicaragua Transit, states that the new Transit contract with the Nicaragua government is completed and ratified by first steamer—fifty thousand dollars.

Eastern line still silent.

Steamer Brother Jonathan arrived this evening from Portland and Victoria.

A Hint to Jeff. Davis.—General Grant appears to have been acting from the beginning of his first campaign upon a fixed principle—to take away from the rebels whatever they declared themselves least able to spare. In January, 1862, it was rumored that the rebel Capital would presently be removed to Nashville. General Grant determined to be beforehand with Davis, moved upon the works of Fort Donelson, and after very handsomely capturing the garrison, with Gen. Buckner, took possession of Nashville. Next, Davis announced to all the world that the fate of the confederacy depended upon the fate of Vicksburg. Hereupon, Grant moved down and captured that place. East Tennessee was next declared to be absolutely necessary to the safety of the rebel cause. The untiring Grant no sooner heard this than he sent Sherman to Knoxville to drive off Longstreet and leisurely drove Bragg away from Chattanooga. It is how Davis' turn; will he kindly mention another point the occupation of which is necessary to his peace of mind, and to the success of his plot against the Union? General Grant waits.—N. Y. Evening Post, Feb. 17th.

The Storm at San Francisco.—On Friday a furious hail storm commenced at 1.35 o'clock, lasting half an hour. The housetops were white, and at the junction of Market and Stockton streets a hail drift twelve inches deep was shoveled from the rail road track after the storm. Many persons engaged in snowballing, and numerous windows were broken. The hail was accompanied by sharp flashes of lightning in quick succession and heavy peals of thunder.—Marysville Appeal, March 2 th.

Circuit Court in Oregon City.—Judge Shattuck opened the March term of this Court yesterday, the business for the present week having been the trial of William Strickler, indicted for the murder of Lebbeus Moran more than a year ago. It was the second trial of this case, the jury having disagreed at the first. Yesterday the defendant was acquitted. W. W. Page of this city conducted the prosecution and the prisoner was defended by A. E. Wait and J. K. Kelly.

Land Agency at Walla Walla.—Mr. H. Parker of Walla Walla, exhibited to us yesterday very admirable copies of the plats of twenty-five townships of the public lands in the Walla Walla valley which have recently been prepared for him at the Land Office in Vancouver to enable him to assist claimants in preparing their papers accurately without being obliged to be at the expense of a journey to the Land Office. His facilities for rendering assistance are thereby much increased.

The Overland Press.—The control of this loyal little sheet, at Olympia, W. T., has reverted to its former proprietor, and will still stand up for the Union under the editorial guidance of L. G. Abbott & Co. Success to it.

If women do the greater part of talking, they also do the better part of it.

On all sides we hear the merits of the Grover & Baker Sewing-Machine extolled. The ladies declare it the "very best," and prove it to us in so many undeniable facts that we are bound to confess our conviction of the truth of the declaration. What other machine will embroider so beautifully, braid so elegantly, hem so faultlessly, quilt so evenly, stitch so accurately, gather so regularly, operate so easily? None, we constitutionally affirm.

Case of Mrs. Edwards.—The trial of this case commenced at Vancouver on Wednesday of last week, and occupied the attention of the U. S. District Court for six days. The evidence closed on Monday morning, and was argued at great length by Messrs. Lawrence and Potter for the defence, and H. G. Struve and J. Catlin for the prosecution. The trial was most fiercely contested throughout by both sides. After the able and eloquent arguments of the counsel, which engaged the attention of the Jury for nearly two days, Judge Wyche delivered an able charge to the Jury; at 7 o'clock, on Tuesday evening, the Jury retired, and after an absence of four hours, returned with their verdict of "Guilty of murder in the first degree." The female prisoner observed a calm demeanor throughout the trial, and asserts her innocence. The Court has not as yet pronounced sentence, as defendants counsel gave notice of a motion for a new trial.

The Samuel Merritt.—We were mistaken in the locality at which the bark Samuel Merritt was to load for San Francisco. She is loading piles at the mouth of Lewis river. This bark has beaten every vessel in the line between here and San Francisco, during the past year. In June last she made the round trip, with full cargoes both ways, in twenty-two days, and on the present voyage she was only absent from the Columbia river twenty-one days—thus making two of the quickest trips ever made by a sailing vessel, and having made one more voyage than any other vessel in the line—by doing this she has taken a turn away from each vessel. The Samuel Merritt should fly the "bread pendant" of the California and Oregon Packet Line, until she is beaten. She is promised by her owners a large 32-pounder swivel-gun, with a full armament, to be ready for any emergency, the Alabama, or any other man.

Meeting of the Council.—The Common Council met last evening [illegible] usual hour. Five members were present, President Sutton in the Chair. Petitions were granted for the use of the streets in front of certain premises for building purposes. Bills of City Marshal, his deputies, and Recorder McCoy, for unpaid fees, in cases disposed of in the Recorder's Court, were ordered [illegible] bill of E. Boyd, [illegible] Clerk in the [illegible] W. L. Clark for [illegible] furnished [illegible] $42, were [illegible] for [illegible] was ordered paid. A [illegible] was raised in relation to the appointment [illegible] for election, for the 2d Ward. The Council at a previous meeting having appointed one not a resident of that Ward, Wm. Beck was appointed to serve in his place.

Most Desirable Improvement.—Our readers will be glad to learn that Mr. J. L. Parrish proposes to erect, at an early day, a substantial brick edifice on his lot at the corner of Front and Washington streets. It will be three stories high, and made after the style of Mr. Vaughn's handsome structure at the corner of Morrison street, but will be twice as wide in front. Everybody will be gratified when this valuable property is thus improved, and we are sure that its owner will never regret the completion of a work which will add greatly to the appearance of the city, and afford the most eligible location for business.

Stock Board.—The Portland Stock Board meets every Tuesday evening. The Secretary has furnished us with the subjoined list of rates, "bid" and "asked," of some of the stocks offered in the Board at its last meeting:

	BID.	ASKED.
Oregon Steam Navigation Co.	80 ₩ ct.	100

John Day Mining Company		$ 5 ₱ share
Union Mining Co., Santiam Dist.	$50	75 "

Bannock " Boise Dist.		5 "
Grant & Briggs, Owyhee Dist.		15 - "
Morning Star, "		10 "

Beehive, "		5 "

Columbia River Bar.—Owing to the extreme roughness of the sea at the mouth of the Columbia river, no vessels were able to cross the Bar, for several days previous to the last trip of the John H. Couch, from Astoria Tuesday morning. Five vessels are in the river bound out—the Almy, Industry, Ivanowno, Almatia and Samuel Merritt. The Jenny Jones from Victoria had been seen off the Bar, but the pilot boat could not get out to her. The Jane A. Falkenberg, from San Francisco, was due.

Silver Instruments.—We yesterday took a look at some fine German Silver instruments, manufactured for the Mechanics Brass Band, of this city. They were made in New York, by E. Buack, on an order given by H. Sinsheim, of the Music Store, 105 First street, Portland. Messrs. Sinsheim & Co. have a new lot of Pianos, received by the last steamer, which deserve the attention of purchasers.

Building Material for the Dalles.—The steamer Wilson G. Hunt took three tons and a half of stone from this city yesterday, to be used for door and window sills in a new building at the Dalles. This stone was taken from a quarry across the river, opposite Portland, and is much sought, for such purposes, owing to the superior quality.

All Fools Day.—To-morrow is the First of April. So look out! The jokers will be around, poking fun at people, and making themselves generally ridiculous. The Gyascutus will doubtless be on exhibition, so we give fair warning.

The Best Thing for the Season.—At R. Pittock's upper store, everybody who loves clams, can find the best ever brought to Portland. Large, juicy, razor fellows, just from Clatsop. They clamor for purchasers.

THE BEST THING FOR THE SEASON.—At R. French's upper store, everybody who loves clams can find the best ever brought to Portland. Large, juicy, razor fellows, just from the steamer. They clamor for purchasers.

IT IS WORTH THE MONEY.—To-night, J. E. Myers has a benefit, and respectfully, smilingly, and earnestly invites every good-natured soul in the city to honor the Theatre with its bodily presence. He is able, to make more honest, hearty fun than any comic actor we have seen in Portland, and his constant and long repeated exertions to do his jolly duty deserve reward. Any one who successfully and innocently amuses others, ought now and then to have the compliment returned, and the best way to give Myers what he has justly earned, and to tickle his sides severely, is to give him a generous benefit, which will put his solemn face in a broad grin that will last for a week.

PROSECUTING ATTORNEY.—We learn by private dispatch, that E. W. Hodgkinson, Esq., of this city, was nominated in the State Convention, by acclamation, as candidate for Prosecuting Attorney of this District.

NO SOUTHERN MAIL.—The recent heavy rains have so much swollen the obstructive Santiam, that the Stage could not cross it on Tuesday, and yesterday's mail brought nothing from beyond Salem.

CALICO-DRESS BALL.—The ladies of the Vancouver Sanitary Aid Society, will give a calico dress ball to-morrow evening at the Vancouver Military Hall.

WILLAMETTE STEAMERS.—The steamer Enterprise will leave Canemah for Eugene city, to-morrow morning, April 1st.

THE LECTURE.—Mrs. Sallie B. Thayer will deliver her lecture at the Court House this evening. We trust every seat may be filled.

Why should the male sex avoid the letter A? Because it makes men mean.

Calico Dress Ball.—A Calico Dress Ball will be given by the Ladies of the Vancouver Sanitary Aid Society, on Friday, April 1st, at the Military Hall, Vancouver Barracks. Admission, including Refreshments, $3. Ice Cream Extra.

My First Wife

Mr Jones—an uncommon name, reader—never discovered that he loved his wife to distraction until the very day of her death When that sad event occurred, he seemed suddenly to become conscious of the wonderful fact that he could n't possibly exist without her. He plunged at once into the deepest purgatory of woe, and the neighborhood groaned, wept, wrung his hands, and tore his hair, he regretted exceedingly that he was still unable to express his grief in a manner more adequate to the occasion. Mr Jones literally waded in agony, and swam in despair, he refused utterly to be comforted, and touchingly requested his friends to "bury him in the same grave with his Sophronia!"

It was a singular circumstance, well known to the neighbors, that he had never appeared sensible of his wife's virtues during her lifetime, but now, while she lay dead in the house, the bereaved husband enumerated such a catalogue of good traits and dazzling qualities as would tire the reader to hear them repeated. It was truly astonishing to hear from his own lips what a marvelous woman Mrs Jones was—so kind, so affectionate, so prudent and self sacrificing, so industrious, and such a good mother! He wept all the time of the funeral service, and at the churchyard tried to throw himself into the grave, in an exacerbation of grief. He returned home looking so crushed and woe begone that the neighbors said "he would never recover from the shock."

Mrs. Smith met him and tried to assuage the awful pangs of sorrow which convulsed his breast She advised him to be reconciled to the will of Heaven, and not to rebel against the divine mandates.

"Mrs Smith," he replied, solemnly, 'all my hopes of happiness are blasted. With Sophronia I have buried all my earthly prospects"

"Now, don't take on so," rejoined good Mrs Smith, "but bear your bereavement patiently, for the sake of your children"

"I really wish I was dead, Mrs Smith I wish I was dead buried with her!" And he capered about as some of the martyrs might have done when subjected, barefoot, to the torture of the iron floor.

"Remember that death is the common lot," added the persevering lady.

"Death does n't terrify me," returned the widower, in an impressive tone. "Its being left behind"

"Believe me, neighbor Jones, time will soften your sorrow, and God will give you strength to bear this visitation"

"Never!" he exclaimed "I do not wish my sorrow softened, and I don't care about strength; in fact, I hope it may fail, and my bodily powers decay, that I may soon follow her to the silent tomb."

"Such feelings are sinful, Mr. Jones, conduct yourself with a becoming fortitude, and in due time find a companion for yourself, and a mother for your children"

Here the afflicted man had a fresh paroxysm of grief, and struck some highly tragical attitudes, throwing his kindly disposed neighbor with some of the most lugubrious expressions ever attempted and successfully achieved, either on the stage or off

'I shall never, never marry again! The sainted Mrs. Jones has not her equal on earth! I have no idea of a second wife seems like the greatest treason to departed worth; but I forgive you, Mrs Smith, for I did n't here say you in the mean well!"

The worthy woman now realized that such woe was altogether out of her depth, and that she could not possibly find up any comfort from the common waters of consolation, and so with a sigh she left the bereaved Jones to wallow alone through the mire of affliction

Everybody said Jones would never get married, and the idea was of universal prevalence a settled question, ceded by all parties by unanimous consent.

In just one month from the day of Mrs. Jones decease, Mrs. Smith, from a window, saw a remarkably well dressed, gentleman dismounting quite gaily, with a youthful looking lady at his side.

"Who in the world can that be?" she asked, turning to her friend, Mrs. Hopkins

"I'm" replied the lady, "is Mr Jones"

"It can't be possible!" exclaimed the questioner

And why not?" inquired Mrs. Hopkins

Because his wife's death has broken his spirit, and he'll never hold up his head again But I do declare, it does look like him!"

'And do you recognize the lady with him?" resumed the other.

"It's probably his wife's aunt," said Mrs Smith carefully adjusting her glasses.

'Nothing of the kind, it is the pretty widow I mean whose husband died last fall."

Well I never expected to see Mr. Jones look so cheerful or spruce up in such a way. Why, I don't remember when I've seen a man prostrated by any bereavement as he was by the death of Mrs. Jones. Really, I thought he would die of grief."

"I can perceive it is wearing off pretty fast. You see in the young widow Perkins the future Mrs. Jones, probably."

"Now, Mrs Hopkins, you are really uncharitable If it is most likely the poor soul has no such idea in his mind Who knows but he is going to visit his wife's grave?"

'It does n't look much like it to me, Mrs Smith. I should say that he is courting his second wife."

"He'll never marry, he most solemnly assured me that he should n't," rejoined Mrs. Smith, sharply.

"Wait a while," was the laconic reply And so they waited.

Would you believe it, reader?—have you anticipated the announcement we are about to make? Mr. Jones was married to the widow Perkins in precisely two months after his adored Sophronia's departure from the world of vicissitudes All the neighbors talked, appeared nonplussed, and could n't comprehend it in the least The crushed, broken spirited Jones could not be found anywhere, but a cheerful, somewhat dashing, carefully dressed person bearing that name was frequently seen walking very lovingly and coyly with a lady that sported the unmistakeable trappings of a bride That serene, complacent, smiling looking individual must once have been the widower who forms the subject of this sketch People stopped and gazed after him in the street until his rejuvenated figure was out of sight, and this they did for a long time, before they could persuade themselves that the man who wished to be "buried with his dear Sophronia" was again married.

A Connubial Sketch.

A short time ago there arrived at a hotel in Boston a couple from Rhode Island, who came to get joined, quietly, in the bonds of matrimony. As soon as they were fairly domiciliated, the would be bridegroom—who was a rough, but apparently honest specimen of the country Yankee—sent for the proprietor of the hotel, who quickly answered the summons.

"Say, landlord," proposed the stranger, pointing to his modest duluna, in the corner of the parlor, "this is my young 'ooman Naow, we've cum all the way from Rhode Island, and want to be spliced. Send for a minister, will yer? Want it done up right straight off."

The landlord smiled and went out, and half an hour afterward a licensed minister made his appearance, and the obliging host, with one or two waggish friends, were called in as witnesses to the scene.

'Naow, Mr Stiggins," says the Yankee, "dew it up brown and your money's ready,' and forthwith the reverend gentleman commenced by directing the parties to join their hands The Yankee stood up to his lady love like a sick kitten to a hot brick, seized her hand, as much pleased as a raccoon might be supposed to be with two tails

"You promise, Mr A," said the parson, "to take this woman—"

"Yaas," said the Yankee

"To be your lawful and wedded wife?"

"Yaas—Yaas!"

"That you will love and honor her in all things"

"Yaas"

"That you will cling to her, and her only, so long as you both shall live"

"Yaas, 'ndeed—nothing else!" continued the Yankee, in the most delighted and earnest manner, but here the reverend gentleman halted, much to the surprise of all present and more especially to the annoyance and discomfiture of the intended bridegroom

"Yaas—yaas, I said," added the Yankee

"One moment, my friend," responded the minister slowly, for it suddenly occurred to him that the law of Massachusetts did not permit of this performance, without the observance of a publishment, etc, for a certain length of time!

"Wot'n thunder's the matter, minister? Dunn't stop—go on—put or three Nothin's split, eh? Ain't sick, minister, be yer?"

"Just at this moment, my friend, I have thought that you can't be married in Massachusetts—"

"Can't! won't thunder's the reason' I like her, she likes me wot's to hender?"

"You have n't been published, I think"

"Haint a goin' to be, nuther! that's what we cum here for On the sly, go on—go on, old feller."

"I, really, sir"—said the parson

"Railly' Wal, go ahead' 'Taint fair, you see, 'taint, I awaow, you're married me, and hain't teched her. Go on—don't stop here! 'at aint jes' the thing, naow, by gracious 'taint!"

"I will consult—"

"No you won't—no you don't—consult—consult nothin' nor nobuddy, till this ere business is concluded, naow mind! tell ye!" said Jonathan, resolutely—and in an instant he had turned the key in and out of the lock, amid the titterings of the witnesses, who nearly choked with merriment.

"Naow say, mister, as we were—," continued the Yankee, seizing his trembling intended by the hand again—"go on, rite strait from where you left off, ya can't cum nun or this halfway business with this child, so put er threu, and no dodging. It'll be all right—go it!"

The parson reflected a moment, and concluding to risk it, continued

"You promise, madam, to take this man to be your lawful husband?"

"Yaas," said the Yankee, as the lady bowed.

"That you will love, honor and obey—"

"Them's 'um," said Jonathan, as the lady bowed again

"That you will cling to him, so long as you both shall live!"

"That's the talk," said Jonathan, and the lady said yes again.

"Then, in the presence of these witnesses, I pronounce you man and wife—"

"Hoorah!" shouted Jonathan, leaping nearly to the ceiling with joy

"And what God hath joined together let no man put asunder."

"Hoorah!" continued Jonathan. "Wot's the price"—naow much?—spit it out—don't be afeared—you did it jes' like a book, old fellor!—here's a V—never mind the change—sen' for a hack, landlord—give us your bill—I've got her! Hail Columbia—happy land!" roared the poor fellow, entirely unable to control his joy, and ten minutes afterward he was on his way to the Providence depot with his wife, and the happiest man out of jail.

We heard the details of the above scene from an eye-witness of the ceremony, and could not avoid putting it down as one of the weddings.—American Union

A SUTLER'S RUN FOR LUCK ON THE COAST OF TEXAS.—Owing to the meager supply of transportation, sutlers have found it difficult to get to their regiments on the Texas coast, and have resorted to various expedients to accomplish this Some have "greased" their way through—some have chartered, and some bought schooners, and gone out in that way Among these latter was Sam Huston, sutler of the 18th Indiana Sam is a very "gay and festive" individual, who not only supplies the inner and outer man with the best there is, but also furnishes wit and humor for the division, and is a "staying good fellow"

Well, Sam got his "ship" loaded and started for Cavallo about two weeks ago; and about a week afterward he pulled up at a point which (as he had never been hither) he says, "looked for all the world like Cavallo Pass," and he hove to. As he was becalmed he commenced taking observations, which observations resulted in the discovery that every body in view were grey instead of blue, and presently he was approached by a boat containing two pilots and a gunboat Captain.

"Where are you from?" they hailed.

"Off the Balize."

"Did the Lilly get in?"

Sam began to 'smell a mice' and answered quickly, 'Yes!"

This gave great satisfaction, and they came aboard much admiring how Sam had got through with such a rich cargo. A breeze soon sprung up, sails were hoisted, and a pilot took the helm. Sam walked up to him, and asked him what he was going to do"

"Going to take you in"

Sam rather thought not, and in fact intimated as much.

"It's all right I'm pilot, and am going to take you in."

"But I don't want to go in," said Sam, drawing a revolver and requested a surrender of the trio of graybacks. This was complied with, but finding their mistake as to his being a blockade runner, they undertook to induce him to become one, telling him he could sell all he had for gold, and make a fortune, and giving him assurance of fair play and protection. But Sam "could'nt see it" and started out to sea.

But presently a new difficulty arose The breeze died away and Sam was becalmed again, in full view of the rebel harbor and gunboat that was evidently getting up steam The prisoners, however, were equally frightened, and readily agreed to compromise and "play quits" So Sam turned them adrift, sending with them a box of wine for the rebel General, and tell him he was a "h—ll of a fellow, to run his officers right into a Hoosier's nest!"

This was at Velasco, and Sam got safely to Cavallo in time for Christmas
